Heidelberg, 21th april 2020

To whom it may concern;

I was asked by Ruben Weigand's life partner, Hannah Fiedler, to provide the following medical opinion.

Mr. Ruben Weigand came to our clinic in 2018 seeking diagnosis and treatment options of what turned out to be obstructive sleep apnea syndrome (OSA). Dr. Benotmane, head of our center for sleep medicine, who conducted Mr. Weigand's sleep study, referred him to me on April 10, 2018 for further evaluation and treatment. In my department a second diagnosis was detected, concerning an upper airway resistance syndrome (UARS).

Mr. Weigand's oxygen levels drop significantly at night as shown by the sleep study. Additionally, he presented with recurring sinusitis and mouth breathing which are an indication of a severe compromised immune system. I advised Mr. Weigand that he should consider surgery to correct the skeletal dysgnathia, but to start with lifestyle changes, i.e. losing weight and exercise regularly to see if his condition would improve.

Although it is too early in the pandemic spread of the novel coronavirus to know exactly how much higher the risk for a sleep apnea / upper airway resistance syndrome patients is to have a severe course of infection, the following is clear: Anyone whose immune system is compromised is at a significant risk to become severely, possibly fatally, ill when infected with the coronavirus. Sleep apnea and resistance in upper airway often cause a weakened immune system and Mr. Weigand presented corresponding severe symptoms.

Besides the lifestyle changes mentioned above, it is extremely important that a sleep apnea / upper airway resistance patient supports his immune system by practicing respiratory wellness, which includes an optimal sleep setup, regular exercise in fresh unpolluted air and a healthy diet.

To the Honorable Judge Rakoff;

Today, I am writing this letter with great earnestness in favor of my longtime friend and business partner Ruben Weigand. Ruben and I met more than 10 years ago through mutual business acquaintances, and we became business partners and steadfast friends. He grew up in a family of 5 and his parents, both teachers, raised him to be a solid, honest and down-to-earth man. I consider Ruben part of my family and he has my full support.

I know Ruben to be an honest businessman, who always follows through on an agreement. In all these years, he has always, without fail, stood by his word. Ruben impresses with his humility and compassion for others. I have witnessed him treating everyone always with kindness and respect. I cannot imagine that Ruben would ever act dishonestly.

Sincerely yours,

Your Honor,

The purpose of this letter is to support my dear friend Ruben Weigand in his current situation.

I know Ruben for almost ten years and we were introduced by a common friend in my hometown Munich. Over the years, we met more and more frequently. Initially for business occasions when we attended the same conferences but then also had the chance to meet Ruben's family for the first time and I can attest him as an absolute family person.

He has an exemplary relation to his parents and siblings.

I will never forget when Ruben –back then still a student I believe- supported his parents after their failing with a franchise operation and they were close to losing their house.

With his support and keeping the family together, they made it through this crisis together.

To me this also explains the role Ruben plays for his younger brother Quintus to whom Ruben means more than just a brother, he is another father figure.

Ruben's open, warm and generous kind made him to one of my closest friends.

I value his advice when ever I ask Ruben for (and also when I don't ask for) and he is a man with great principles and stands for his word.

If I need help, I know that I can rely on Ruben and I sincerely hope that my letter can do some help to get a true picture of Ruben and his character.

Sincerely,

RE: Ruben Weigand

Dear Judge Rakoff; (Your Honor;)

Thank you for allowing me to share my experiences with your Honor in regard to Mr. Ruben Weigand. I have known Ruben for about 10 years and witnessed his career from the first time he set foot in the Payment Industry. Throughout the years, Ruben developed to a very successful and knowledgeable eCommerce payment expert who always maintained close relationships with bank acquirers and regulators. A few years back, Ruben actually became the managing director of a Luxembourg licensed Payment Institution. To make a long story short, Ruben is very familiar and acquainted with the rapidly changing payment regulations, set out by the regulators such as Visa and Mastercard. It took me entirely by surprise to hear that Ruben had been taken in custody by the US Justice Department. I hope that Ruben will be granted the chance to clear his name as I can't picture him to have engaged into business practices that are not in-line with domestic regulations.

I have known Ruben as an accountable person who always helped others who weren't as fortunate as himself. Now, I guess it is my time to put in a good word for Ruben.

Anyhow, I don't want to take up any more of your valuable time, but one thing is for certain, Ruben is going to stay his man in court and won't flout the law by failing to appear.

Perhaps you can grant Ruben the privilege to join his girlfriend who stayed back in New York and properly prepare for the trial ahead of him.

And of course, we as friends of Ruben are also prepared to raise funds for a potential bail requirement if found necessary to provide.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best Regards / Mit freundlichen Grüßen

Benjamin Bayr
